countries in the Global South. ‘Loss & damage’ is not part of this financial plan, but should get its own program in government spending.

The EU should set up a body to hold countries to account and fine them if they do not use 2%. The EU should also look to reward countries who use 5% GDP or more by offering reductions in EU membership fees for each year this is achieved by the country, to encourage larger proportions of spending on climate saving solutions. The EU should also look to encourage this minimum 2% GDP rule being upheld across the globe and use international events to lobby for this to become international law and best practice.

Reason

Think would be good to have a way to hold countries accountible and also incentives to do more than 2%
