Motion text

Insert from line 448 to 449:

Two thirds of the Executive Committee can propose the dismissal of the Secretary-General. An additional General Assembly must then be convened by a decision of the Administrative Board under the applicable rules (as set out in the statutes), where the Member Organisations vote on both the dismissal of the existing Secretary-General, and the election and appointment to the Administrative Board of a new interim Secretary-General. The Executive Committee has the right to in writing and orally inform the Member Organisations as to why they have proposed the dismissal, and the Secretary-General the right to defend themselves.

If quorum is reached (as detailed in the Statutes) and a simple two-thirds majority is found at the additional General Assembly for dismissing the Secretary-General, the Secretary-General is dismissed. The Executive Committee can propose dismissal of the Secretary General, with

Insert from line 453 to 454:

Executive Committee. The Secretary General ad interim will continue until the election of a new Secretary General at the subsequent General Assembly. The new interim Secretary-General will take over the mandate over the former Secretary-General, expiring whenever the former Secretary-General's mandate would have expired. They have all the powers and responsibilities of the former Secretary-General.

Reason

We have come to realise that The Secretary General can't be dismissed only by the Executive Committee because this position is part of the Administrative Board and the members of the Administrative Board can only be dismissed by the General Assembly.
