Motion text

Insert after line 113:

During times in which the United States of America is an increasingly unreliable partner, working to undermine the essential bases of international law and democracy, FYEG calls for the European Union and its member states to:

- Develop an independent voice and approach with a distinct voice, and take the leadership necessary to achieve a permanent and just ceasefire in Gaza.
- Recognize the Palestinian state with its capital in Jerusalem.
- Uphold their own democracies and protect human rights on a global scale.
- Support a lasting peace in the Middle-Eastern region and self-determination for its peoples.
- Show that international agreements and laws must be respected and that there are no exceptions.
- Hold themselves accountable by ending all arms trade, all security cooperation, and all economic agreements that support systems of oppression. Doing so is in line with the EU Common Position on arms export controls and in compliance with international humanitarian law. Military collaboration, including joint research and security contracts, makes European governments complicit in violations of international law.
