Motion text

From line 11 to 14:

~~However, European security should not be a matter of mindless increase in military spending. It must be focused on ensuring the interoperability of European armies.~~ However, this must not lead to mindless military build-up. We must focus on strategic autonomy through coordinated investments, joing procurement, and interoperability amond European armies - but with clear limits and accountability. This approach must prioritize human security and community resilience, not just territorial defense. In total European countries already invest a lot in their military. A new security architecture for Europe needs to be created to ensure
