R2 AM4: Climate Adaptation Is Justice: Care for Europe's Vulnerable Territories

Proposers Young Greens of Norway

Motion text

Delete from line 1 to 2:

~~Hope is green — but hope alone will not hold back floodwaters, stop megafires, or prevent hillsides from collapsing.~~

From line 17 to 18:

~~Mitigation~~Cities account for about 70% of the emissions worldwide. While the biggest source of emission, the potential of cutting emissions has also been viewed optimistically. Although mitigation remains essential, ~~but~~ it will not protect vulnerable communities already facing irreversible impacts.

Insert from line 21 to 22:

With the intenational politics being especially chaotic and war-torn, many says that this is not the time to prioritize nature. Green politics is about creating a society that works with, not against, nature. This crisis is not only environmental but systemic. It is rooted in capitalism, which is inherently structured around extractivism, where ecosystems are treated adding a sentence about the role of cities as well as making it more relevant to the current discussion around how we prioritize nature.

Reason
