R5 AM4: Universal Basic Services: Towards a Convivial Degrowth Europe

Proposers Grüne Jugend (Germany)

Motion text

From line 58 to 60:

In Vienna, housing costs are kept low because the city owns a large share of the land. ~~Hamburg and~~ Copenhagen use~~s~~ public organisations to manage land, while the whole country of Denmark taxes land and redistributes it to local governments

Insert from line 63 to 64:

Denmark, and the Netherlands have a threshold after which rents become capped or subsidized.Furthermore, cooperatives have proven to provide stable and low rents as they are not profit oriented, in comparison to e.g. city owned companies like SAGA in Hamburg
